Introduction

This concise book was created to help you get the most out of your Professional Numerology Reading, and to answer any questions you may have, as well as assist you in exploring each section of your reading in greater detail. I hope that it will prove to be a useful guidebook to completing your path toward fulfillment, and awareness. It is meant to be used as a companion to your Compatibility Numerology Reading, and you will want to read it along with your reading. Refer to it as often as you need.

I have found that it is best to provide this book to you after you've had a few days to look over your reading, and to allow you time to think about it for a while. After a brief introduction, I'll cover each section of your reading in detail, explaining how you can get the most out of it, by yourself or with your partner. You'll learn how new explorative methods of journaling and learning which can help you gain a valuable understanding of your own unique destiny, and personality, and the way in which the two of you relate.

Numerology as a Science

Numerology has a historical background that leads back tens of thousands of years. It was used in Egyptian Rituals, the Indian Vedas, the Chinese Circle and in the Hebrew Kabbala. Records prove that numbers were used as a science for more than 11,000 years. It is my belief that it was in use, at the very beginning of human communications - even before astrology!

Numerology was initially used as a counting method when alphabetic characters also stood for a numeric counterpart. It was this symbolic association between the two that eventually led to the modern science of Numerology.

Your Names and Birth Dates

It is the unique combination of your names and birth dates that make up who each of you are. As you will see in a minute, each part of the reading tells you a little bit more about who each of you are, both individually, and together in a relationship.

Your birth dates are used for calculating your intellectual compatibility as well as for the forecasting information in your pinnacles and personal years. The birth date indicates your innate talents, assets and capabilities for achieving your destiny. It is also used in determining your personal year details. These calculations help to determine the cycles in our lives - in much the same way that the cycles of the Earth continue to change the weather patterns and seasons throughout the year, your own life cycles will change the patterns of lessons and relationships that occur in your life.

Your names are used for making the calculations that describe your intuitive, emotional and physical compatibility, personality traits and character information. Your full birth certificate names are used for determining the calculations. The birth certificate name indicates the total Soul Urge, total Heart's Desire and total Outer Expression, and is used for determining overall feelings and emotions as they relate to compatibility issues. The personal Soul Urge, personal Heart's Desire and personal Outer Expression is calculated differently (using the first name as it is heard in daily conversation) in The Dreamtime Professional Reading, where it is used to determine different personality issues.

Your full birth certificate names and birth dates are both used to determine your fate compatibility. I will cover these in detail throughout this book, and let you know how they help each of you discover your inner personality and understand your relationship better.

The Numerological Compatibility Chart

The color Compatibility Chart at the top of your reading gives you a quick 'snapshot' of the traits and overall compatibility of the two of you in all areas of your reading. It is designed to let you see quickly the traits and compatibility you will share with another person by looking at the chart. For further details and analysis you should read through the corresponding sections of the reading which follow the chart. It also provides you with an overall calculated 'Total Rating' for both your personal and business compatibility.

	John	Yoko	Personal Compatibility Rating (out of 5)	Business Compatibility Rating (out of 5)
Personality/Physical	Charming, tactful (10/5)	Charming, reliable, confident (14/3)	+++	++
Emotional	Devoted, sensitive, encouraging (12/7)	Compassionate, serene, sensitive (24/8)	Good (2 out of 5)	Fair (1 out of 5)
Intuitive	Leader, intuitive, protective, organized (22/0/1)	Protective, humanitarian, helpful, organized, flexible (28/11/2)	+++	+++
Intellectual	Concise, inquisitive, independent (15/6)	Charitable, realistic, independent (13/8)	++++	++++
Fate	Creative, responsible, original, giving (27/10/7)	Supportive, inspirational, original, responsible, imaginative (30/11/2)	++++	++++
Total Rating:			Good (2 out of 5)	Excellent Very Good (3.84 out of 5)

The overall or Total compatibility rating is calculated by weighing the factors that are most important in each type of relationship to come up with a Total Rating. Keep in mind that this rating is to be used only as an indicator of the relationship. Many relationships can be compatible regardless of the Total Rating that appears here, and those that have high Total Ratings could be incompatible if one specific area of the reading causes problems or trouble in the relationship.

For love and friendship relationships (personal compatibility) more weight is given to the two of you being well matched in the intellectual and the fate sections of the reading which are both good indicators of compatibility that lasts over a long period of time.

One thing to remember is that for friendships, it depends more on the type of friendship that is being analyzed. Some friendships may be more intellectual, while others may be entirely emotional and therefore it is important to check the compatibilities for the section that is most appropriate to the relationship that you wish to explore. You may also want to do this with love relationships and even business relationships

For business relationships it is more important that the intellectual and intuitive compatibility be well matched, as these are used, by each of you in your everyday environment for understanding your goals, standards and life purpose. If you are searching for someone to partner with in a business relationship, it is more important that you share the long term compatibilities such as the intuitive, intellectual and fate compatibilities and these will be the strongest indication of an alignment of business compatibility.

Another thing to consider when looking at the chart is that it is displayed in order (from top to bottom) from the most immediate method of attraction down to the attractions that take a longer time to develop. This means that when you first meet someone, you will be most attracted to them physically, and therefore notice that the Personality/Physical Compatibility rating appears in the first row under each of your names. Next, you will be attracted to someone emotionally and thirdly intuitively. Finally the intellectual and fate compatibilities are those which usually start to make themselves known after a relationship has entered a long term and stable pattern of growth, which could occur after several years in some relationships, or over many months.

PHYSICAL / PERSONALITY Compatibility

This part of the reading explores the first compatibility attraction that you will notice about another person: their personality, and their physical appearance. The numbers for this section are calculated from the consonants in your full birth certificate names and indicate your Total Outer Expression numbers.

You will also find a Personality Aroma Essence included in this part of the reading. It will provide you with a list of essential oils that can be used to assist you in achieving greater physical and personal power. You may also use these oils with your partner to enhance your own personality attractiveness. By using the oils indicated for the trait(s) listed you will find that that personality aspect is enhanced.

After you read about the traits that are part of each of your personalities, you will find an overall Personality Matrix which lists all the traits for each of you and their overall strength.

How others first see you, your Total Outer Expression

For each of person in the relationship you will see a list of personality and physical traits described in each paragraph, in order from strongest to weakest in that person. In other words the first paragraph will describe the strongest personality trait(s) in that person, while each paragraph that follows will describe traits that are not as apparent as the previous paragraphs traits. Keep this in mind as your read you and your partners' personality traits.

Remember that these traits are usually the first thing that attracts someone to another, however they are the least important traits to consider for long term relationships. Read this section of your reading and think about how these traits make themselves known in your own personality and in the personality of the other person in the reading. You may want to read this and discuss the traits with the other person as you go through the reading.

Personality Aroma Essence

This part of your reading was developed to provide you with a description and list of aromatherapy aromas and essential oils that you can use to help you achieve the specific personality traits. Choose the traits you want to work on, and select the aromas and oils from that group to help heighten your awareness, and provide you with an enhanced awareness of the trait(s) listed. You may use them in personal relationships as a way to work with your partner in finding a greater understanding of each other. You can also use them in business relationships to give you that extra boost of daily inspiration or awareness that enhances the specific traits of your personality that are listed for the oils.

The oils that support your true path group lists oils which assist you in holding the properties of your Total Outer Expression. While each group can be useful, if you have an 'Essential Total Outer Expression' (a Total Outer Expression number which is one digit), then there will be only one group of oils indicated which are the most important for you. This same group of oils can also be used to assist you in reaching your Total Outer Expression traits, as well as support your Total Outer Expression traits.

To enhance the personality traits that you are working on choose aromas/oils from the list and use them throughout your day: with aroma diffusers, spray bottles, candles and incense or in massage. See the following section for specific ideas on how to use the aromas/oils.

Using Aromatherapy Aromas/Oils

You may use these oils in many different ways; the most common method is in a diffuser, or spray bottle to get the scent into the air. Some oils are not safe for application to your skin, or in creams, lotions and oils. If you are planning on making your own blends consult the safety guidelines for the oils you plan on using, especially if applying to your skin, or in situations such as with pregnant women or children. Here's a general overall note that applies for all Essential Oil use, CAUTION: Essential oils are highly concentrated and potentially hazardous, if misused. Consult the safety guidelines of any oil(s) you use.

Keep in mind that the scent of oils listed in each group will help you to feel a stronger sense of the personality trait that is indicated in the heading of each group. There are many ways to use the oils, here are some suggestions: the most popular is probably to use the oils \(or a blend of oils, see below\) in a diffuser \(click here for some diffusers that are available\). You can add the oils to spray bottles to create portable aroma diffusers that you carry with you anywhere \(click here for some prepared aroma spray bottles\). You may want to purchase a few of the spray bottles, and then when they are empty create your own blends of oils in the bottles, and label them with the properties they assist with*. You can also purchase or make your own scented candles and incense*.

Another way to use the oils is to add them to unscented massage oil or to a base oil \(such as almond or avacado\) to create a special massage oil*. You can do something similar by adding oils to an unscented lotion or cream, or an unscented butter or clay to create a moisturizing skin lotion, soap or deodorant*. For more details on how to use the oils, and concise descriptions of them and the ailments they help with you might want to pick up an aromatherapy decoder wheel. CAUTION: Essential oils are highly concentrated and potentially hazardous, if misused. Consult the safety guidelines of any oil(s) you use.

The oils could be used on their own, one at a time - perhaps you find one particular oil more helpful than another, or you could create a blend of three or more oils which can then be used in a diffuser to spread the scent throughout your living environment, or even in your car. I use a portable aromatherapy diffuser when I am driving, and you may find it useful too.

To make a blend of the oils, keep in mind that you want to use (1 to 2 drops) of a Base oil (stronger or muskier smell), (3 to 4 drops) of a Middle note scent, and (4 to 5 drops) of a Top, or high note scent (lighter smells). Each oil in the listing is indicated with its type in each group Top, Middle, or Base scent. I recommend that you purchase your oils from a reputable source –such as *Mountain Rose Herbs, or *Kalyx (which carries Frontier and Aura Cacia Essential Oils.

Comparing the Physical/Personality compatibility of you two we find that

In this section you will find a description of how the two of you will relate on a personal level with the personality traits indicated. At first you will see your rating and a description of your relationship in personal relationships, followed by your rating and description of your interactions in business relationships.

You can use each section of the reading to explore how you will get along in each situation. For personal relationships it is helpful to read both sections in this part of the reading. Although you may not feel you will ever be business partners, the business compatibility rating and discussion may provide valuable information for you and your partner, especially as you work together on goal oriented, or success minded projects and concepts.

Likewise for business relationships you may find some value in reading through the section that describes your personal relationship with each other. This section will describe how you relate to each other when you are dealing with personal interactions and on a personal level with each other. Reading each section that is presented will provide you with insight into how the relationship will progress over time, and may give you subtle clues to the problems or to the aspects of your interactions that provide benefits to both of you.

Read the paragraphs in these sections immediately after you have read through the physical/personality traits for yourself and your partner in the reading. By doing this you will have a good reference point to understand the characteristics and physical/personality issues in each of you that creates the personal and business compatibility interactions.

The Personality Matrix

I personally developed the Personality Matrix and Personality Traits chart to give you an even greater detailed look at your personalities: their strengths and weaknesses. For more information including exercises you can use to overcome your personality weaknesses, please see The Dreamtime Professional Numerology Reading that features an enhanced version of the Personality Matrix.

All of the traits from the Personality Matrix are counted and placed into your Personality Traits chart that appears after the Personality Matrix. Read this chart by determining which traits and strength of each appear in each of your personalities.

If, for example, you have a value of 4 in the Amount in your Name corresponding with the value of number 1 (Independence, Uniqueness), then you will know that the trait of Independence is fairly strong by comparing the value of that trait with the others in your chart. If all of the other traits show a value of 1, 2 or 3, then you will know that Independence and Uniqueness is your strongest trait.

By comparing each trait with the strength of the others, as well as with the strength of the other person's trait, you can get a good idea of how strong each particular trait is within your personality. You can also find out how much of each trait you have in your personality compared to that trait in the other person. This is very useful, and good for determining if there is one particular personality trait that seems to hinder or cause problems in your relationship.

The traits with lower values (usually 1 or 2) are only slightly felt, and the traits with zero in your name, or your partner's name are missing from the personality. Because they are missing, this means that there will be tests throughout the life of the person, to help them bring into fruition these traits which are missing from the personality.

Following the chart you may see interpretive text which goes into detail about trait(s) which may be stronger in one of you, and the type of personality interactions this may create. Read these descriptive paragraphs slowly and think about them deeply. Consider the consequences and situations that these type of personality differences can create. You will learn the most if you can read through these differences and discuss them with your partner.

EMOTIONAL Compatibility

This part of the reading explores the second compatibility attraction that you will notice with another person: their emotional and psychological appearance. The numbers for this section are calculated from the vowels in your full birth certificate names and indicate your Total Soul Urge numbers.

This part of the reading explores your emotional attraction and interest in each other. It explores the details of your personal emotions, values and priorities

(and how you assign them). It explores all of your emotional feelings, even those which you may not let others see or know about. By comparing your two Total Soul Urges you will have a good idea on how to work on helping each other understand and find what drives one another toward what that they wish for the most. The numbers for this section are calculated from the vowels in your full birth certificate names.

How you feel emotionally, your Total Soul Urge

For each of person in the relationship you will see a list of emotional and psychological traits described in each paragraph, in order from strongest felt to the weakest in that person. In other words the first paragraph will describe the strongest emotional trait(s) in that person, while each paragraph that follows will describe traits that are not as strong as the previous paragraph's traits. Keep this in mind as your read you and your partners' emotional/psychological traits.

Remember that these traits represent your motivations and intentions and how you and your partner express them emotionally and psychologically as they are related to your wishes, desires and goals. One of you, or both of you, may not be aware of some of these traits if you have not been completely successful at achieving your goals, or you have had to struggle to achieve them. For this reason it is important to read this section with another person, either a friend, or close relative that knows you closely, or with your partner.

Read this section of your reading and think about how these traits make themselves known in your own emotional and psychological makeup and in the emotional and psychological makeup of the other person in the reading. Try to highlight sections of the reading, or traits that you do not feel you express, and then work with someone who knows you intimately – this is usually a very close friend or relative who has insight into your personality and emotions.

Discuss the traits and how you express them with another person, and try to come to an awareness of how these traits have hurt or helped you in your past.

Try to explore new methods for dealing with these issues in the future by writing down how you may feel in specific situations, especially those situations which are success or goal oriented. You should share your feelings and emotions with your partner in this reading if you want to grow in the relationship.

Comparing the Emotional compatibility of you two we find that

In this section you will find a description of how the two of you will relate on an emotional/psychological level with the traits indicated. At first you will see your rating (out of a total of 5) and a description of your interactions, in personal relationships, followed by your rating and description of your interactions in business relationships.

Even though you may not feel you will ever be business partners, the business compatibility rating and discussion may provide valuable information for you and your partner, especially as you work together on understanding each other emotionally, and the values and desires that drive you.

For business relationships you may find some value in reading through the section that describes your personal relationship with each other. This section will describe how you relate to each other when you are dealing with personal interactions on an emotional level with each other.

Reading each section that is presented will provide you with insight into how the relationship will progress over time, and may give you subtle clues to the problems or to the aspects of your interactions that provide benefits to both of you. Keep this in mind as you go through this section and following sections.

Read the paragraphs in these sections immediately after you have read through the emotional/psychological traits for yourself and your partner in the reading. By doing this you will have a good reference point to understand the characteristics and emotional/psychological issues in each of you that creates the personal and business compatibility interactions that show up in this section.

INTUITIVE Compatibility

This part of the reading explores a very important number in your compatibility reading: it represents your destiny or the intuitive feelings that you have toward others. The numbers for this section are calculated from all of the letters in your full birth certificate names and indicate your Total Expression numbers.

This number traditionally indicates your destiny in life, and is highly useful in discovering how you determine your values and see others from your own viewpoint. Both you and your partner go through life looking at others through your own lenses of personal perception. You can think of that perception as the intuitive outlook that you use to guide you in determining your own values and integrity. Can you see how important it is to see how this affects each of you in the relationship?

This part of the reading explores your intuitive attraction and interest in each other: the way that you go about putting value on the people and things in your life. It explores the inner feelings of how you place values and priorities on others, even those which you may not let others see or know about. By comparing your two Total Expression numbers you will understand and find out more about what pushes either of you toward what that they wish for the most. From their most valued ambition, to the priority you put on being with each other, or having time alone.

How you determine your values and see others, your Total Expression

For each of person in the relationship you will see a list of value and feeling traits described in each paragraph in order from strongest felt to the weakest in that person. In other words the first paragraph will describe the strongest trait(s) in that person, while each paragraph that follows will describe traits that are not as strong as the previous paragraph's traits. Keep this in mind as your read you and your partner's intuitive traits.

Remember that these traits represent your values and how you see others from your own perceptions and how you and your partner express this integrity through priorities and your own personal values. This powerful overall expression number is useful in determining your destiny and provides distinct information about how each of you will form a bond in the relationship. This section can help you understand why you or another person acts the way you do toward others. It will prove to be useful in getting to the important deep issues in your relationship.

Read this section of your reading and think about how these traits and how they cause you to determine your values and associations with others. Think about how the traits listed for you can work with, or against the traits listed for your partner in the reading.

You will want to work with your partner, and read this section along with them as they read about their own traits. Together the two of you may want to come to an agreement about how you can work with your own unique perceptions of others, and your values and integrity to create a more harmonious and fulfilling relationship.

Comparing the Intuitive compatibility of you two we find that

In this section you will find a description of how the two of you will relate on an intuitive level with the traits listed. At first you will see your rating (out of a total of 5) and a description of your interactions, in personal relationships, followed by your rating and description of your interactions in business relationships.

As I have mentioned before; although you may not feel you will ever be business partners, the business compatibility rating and discussion may provide valuable information for you and your partner. Especially as you work together on understanding each other's values, and the values and perceptions that drive you.

For business relationships you may find some value in reading through the section that describes your personal relationship with each other. This section will describe how you relate to each other when you are discovering your values with perceptions of others on an intuitive level.

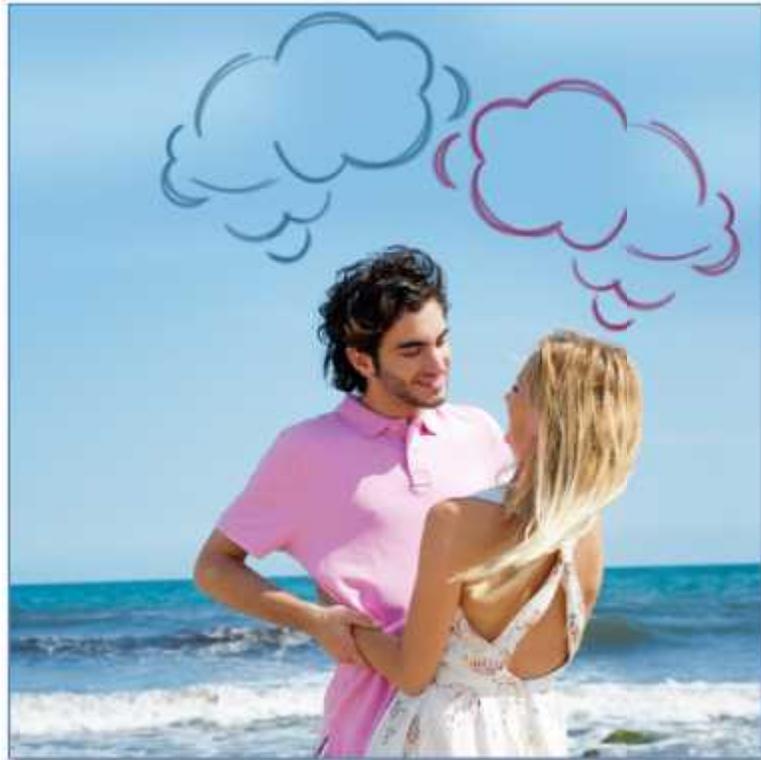

Reading each section that is presented will provide you with insight into how the relationship will progress over time, and may give you subtle clues to the problems or to the aspects of your perceptions that provide benefits to both of you.

Read the paragraphs in these sections immediately after you have read through the intuitive traits for yourself and your partner in the reading. By doing this you will have a good reference point to understanding the characteristics and intuitive issues related to your perceptions of others, and the priorities you place on them in personal and business compatibility interactions.

INTELLECTUAL Compatibility

This section looks at how you and another person think (intellectually and mentally) and work with the talents you are given. The numbers for this section are calculated from your birth dates and indicate your Life Path numbers.

The Life Path number which is calculated for this section is one of the most important parts of a personal reading. It determines the path that you should take in this life, in order to accomplish the goals that you came here to work on. It is also important for discovering the talents and assets that you were born with to help you accomplish those tasks. These tasks and lessons become even more important as you reach maturity (21 years of age or older, and especially after the age of 28), and therefore if you are beyond this age you should pay special attention to this section.

As you would imagine the intellectual compatibility is slightly more important for a business relationship than for a personal one. Since the business relationship relies on each of you setting goals and using your unique talents to achieve those goals, it becomes extremely valuable for you to know the strengths and weaknesses of yourself and your partner when looking at your relationship compatibility. That doesn't mean that if you are reading about a personal relationship that you should ignore this section, as you will also find it useful for understanding the talents and assets that each of you possess and can use toward achieving your life purpose. For more detailed personal information on your Life Path you may want to consider one of our Professional Numerology Readings.

This number traditionally indicates your life purpose (life path), talents, and assets that you have brought with you into this lifetime. This number covers the traits, talents and direction you should take to feel most fulfilled in this lifetime. It is important to realize that if either of you are not following the life path that you came to pursue, you may find difficulties, tests and lessons coming up repeatedly to test you.

This section will go into detail about each of your life paths, assets and lessons. It can be thought of as your intellectual or mental approach to being successful, but also it indicates the methods you use to achieve your goals in any situation. Together, if each of you can learn to support and balance the other out when times are difficult you will find the greatest compatibility.

By studying your own life path, talents, assets and lessons, and learning to work with them to help you achieve more, you will provide a strong foundation to support your partner when they need you most. Go through these sections by yourself at first and make notes in a journal, regarding how you can best accomplish your own life path. Ask that your partner do the same, and then get together to discuss what you have discovered.

How your talents/lessons affect you, your Life Path

For each of person in the relationship there is a section that defines your life path. This section lays out, in detail, a plan of action that may help each of you reach your desired goals faster, and easier, if followed.

Keep in mind that the text in this section is written in future tense, to help each of you feel that you have already accomplished the path you came here to work on. If this sounds out of place, or incorrect, it means that you are not following your true path. It could mean that you may have gotten sidetracked along the way, and you should spend a greater amount of time reading this section and working on achieving the talents and skills discussed here. Try to picture yourself in the environment that is discussed as you read this section.

Your Positive Assets

For each of you will find a section that defines your positive and outstanding assets. Based on your unique personality the assets listed here can assist you in achieving your goals; especially intellectually. Try to picture yourself as this type of person when you work toward any goal - but especially any goal of high importance to you. Make a journal entry describing yourself with the assets listed. Reflect on achieving this outcome now if you haven't already achieved it, and follow this up by sharing your journal entries with your partner if you wish to grow in this relationship.

Your Life Lesson

Also included, for each of you, is the one main lesson you are here to learn. In this section you will find detail about the most important lesson for you to learn and ideas for how you can use your talents for learning that lesson. Take the time to study this section along with the Fate

Compatibility section that describes your past karma. Together these two sections can provide you with very helpful information on how you can each achieve your true goals and learn the lesson that you must learn. Write a journal entry that lists all of your strengths and weaknesses, and how you can use those strengths to overcome the weaknesses. Share this with your partner if you like, and work on a plan that will let each of you work together on achieving your greatest accomplishments.

Comparing the Intellectual compatibility of you two we find that

In this section you will find a description of how the two of you will relate on an intellectual/thinking level with the traits listed. At first you will see your rating (out of a total of 5) and a description of your interactions, in personal relationships, followed by your rating and description of your interactions in business relationships.

As I have mentioned before, although you may not feel you will ever be business partners, the business compatibility rating and discussion may provide valuable information for you and your partner. Especially as you work together on understanding each other's life purpose, goals, and lessons.

For business relationships you may find some value in reading through the section that describes your personal relationship with each other. This section will describe how you relate to each other when you are interacting with each other on an intellectual or mental level.

Reading each section that is presented will provide you with insight into how the relationship will progress over time, and may give you subtle clues to the problems or to the aspects of your perceptions that provide benefits to both of you.

Read the paragraphs in these sections immediately after you have read through the life path, assets, and life lesson sections for yourself and your partner in the reading. By doing this you will have a good reference point to understanding the characteristics and intellectual issues related to how you achieve your goals, and how you work with your talents and assets to overcome your life lesson(s) in personal and business compatibility interactions.

FATE Compatibility

This part of the reading explores the most long-term attraction (for personal relationships), the fate or destiny attraction. The numbers for this section are calculated from all the letters in your full birth certificate names plus the birth date and indicate your Fate numbers.

This part of the reading explores your karmic attraction and interest in each other. It will help you understand the final goal or accomplishment in this lifetime. For personal relationships this is the most important long-term factor, while for business relationships it indicates the ability to continue in partnership for a long time.

How your past karma teaches you, your Fate

In this section I have calculated a very succinct one sentence lesson that your past karma teaches you, for each of you. This one sentence will show you in great detail the most powerful lesson(s) you need to learn that you brought with you from a past life, or that you may have created earlier in this life. Study this one sentence with resolve, and then read and study the sentence for your partner in this relationship.

Discuss your feelings about your own and your partner's past karma, and then think about how this affects you in your daily routine, as well as what may come in the future. Try to determine if you have already completed this karma, and talk about this together as well. For business partnerships this number is not as important, and the past karma may not be an issue, unless it is a specific karmic trait that affects the type of business you are in.

Comparing the Fate compatibility of you two we find that

In this section you will find a description of how the two of you will relate on a fate, or past karmic level, and how well you will interact when working on life lessons. At first you will see your rating (out of a total of 5) and a description of your interactions, in Personal Relationships, followed by your rating and description of your interactions in Business Relationships.

Although you may not feel you will ever be business partners, the business compatibility rating and discussion may provide valuable information for you and your partner, especially as you work together on solving life lessons, or deeper issues in this relationship. Take the time to read both (personal and business) descriptions carefully.

For business relationships you may find some value in reading through the section that describes your personal relationship with each other. This section will describe how you relate to each other when you are dealing with personal life lesson and deeper interpersonal lessons with each other.

Reading each section that is presented will provide you with insight into how the relationship will progress through to it's deepest long term lessons and issues, and may give you subtle clues to the problems or to the aspects of your interactions that provide benefits to both of you. Keep this in mind as you go through this final compatibility section.

Read the paragraphs in these sections immediately after you have read through the 'how your past karma teaches you' section for yourself and your partner in the reading. By doing this you will have a good reference point to understand the characteristics and long term goal issues in each of you that creates the personal and business compatibility interactions that show up in this section. Share your feelings with your partner about the rating and overall compatibility level for this part of your relationship.

Fate Compatibility Chart

Here is a brief chart you can use to help you determine how well your fate matches up with anyone else. Simply add the Life Path number to the Total Expression Number (all the letters in the name) to get the Fate number for you and your partner. Then look up your number along the top of this chart, and follow your finger down that column until you are across from the Fate number of your partner to read your compatibility (consult the chart key at the bottom of the chart to find your rating).

Take a break - answer a few healing questions

At this point in your reading you may want to take some time to answer a few questions about how accurate you feel the compatibility ratings are for each of you in the five different compatibility sections. Make a note about which sections you are rated higher in, versus those sections which you are rated lower, and see if you feel that this makes sense to you.

Discuss these feelings, and take the time to answer a few questions in your Journal. If you are working with a partner, each of you should work on the questions separately, and then take some time to talk about them together.

Here are some questions to consider, you can also write your own questions to ask of each other at this time as well:

- 1.) Which part of the relationship do you feel is most compatible from the five parts discussed (personality/physical, emotional, intuitive, intellectual, or fate)?
- 2.) Which part of the relationship do you feel is least compatible from the five parts discussed (personality/physical, emotional, intuitive, intellectual, or fate)?

- 3.) Do you agree with the traits listed for you in each of the sections, if so, write down how you feel they differ.
- 4.) If you could choose one part of the relationship that you wished you were most compatible in, which part would that be, and why?

Think deeply and answer these questions as honestly as you can. Write your answers in a journal and refer to it as often as needed.

TOTAL SELF – Strongest Traits Compatibility

In this section I took a deeper look at your personalities to create a Total Self traits chart which will reveal the traits in each of you that are strongest and weakest, and how these differences may affect the relationship. I also created a list of your most outstanding personality traits, in order of how dominant they are in your personality for each of you. This chart uses calculations that were developed by The Dreamtime and that are not used by any other numerologists. The unique calculations add new features to our readings that, I hope, will assist you in understanding all aspects of your relationship.

You may think that this chart is similar to the Personality Traits chart that was discussed earlier. However, the calculations used to create this chart go even deeper than those used to determine your personality traits. In this chart you will find traits that may be hidden by your intellect, intuition and emotions which may not show up in the Personality Traits chart. This section is unique in that you will also notice three separate paragraphs discussing how each of you interacts: as lovers, friends and business partners in any relationship.

As you compare this chart with the Personality Traits chart, you may want to have a look and see if any of the traits appear here as some of your most outstanding traits, also appear as strong traits in your Personality Traits chart. Pay special attention if they do, as it indicates that these traits are particularly strong, and that they will be seen in all aspects of your interactions with others in any relationship. You can check the same thing for your partner. As a final check, have a look at your Essential Self chart which follows this one to see if any of these traits are stronger compared to your partner.

Your Total Self indicates that your strongest vibration is

In this section you will see the most prominent personality trait for you and your partner. Read the three paragraphs that describe how this trait will affect you, or your partner as friends, lovers or business partners. Try to come up with examples of this in your different relationships and make a journal entry that will help you work on this trait. Share your feelings with your partner if you wish to grow in this relationship.

Your Most Outstanding Traits

In this section we've chosen the most outstanding traits in your personality, from most noticeable, to least noticeable and list them for each of you. Review these traits for both of you. Because these traits were kept to short, simple paragraphs you should be able to see how they fit into the previous descriptions of your Total Self strongest vibration, and your personality traits that are stronger from the Personality Matrix section. You may also want to check some of these to see if they match up as strong traits in the Essential Self section of the reading that follows.

ESSENTIAL SELF – Relationship Compatibility

This is one of the most advanced charts available for numerological compatibility and the information it provides is detailed and powerful. The chart indicates all of the traits in this relationship and how each trait balances out the overall traits in the relationship. I have made it easy for you by providing interpretive detailed text following this chart. Like the Total Self chart in the previous section, this chart uses calculations that were developed by The Dreamtime and that are not used by any other numerologists.

These sophisticated calculations are extremely valuable for helping you determine overall compatibility issues. The Essential Self chart is especially good at indicating personality traits that are long-term traits: those which will continue to be felt over and over throughout a relationship. Take your time while reading through the strongest traits for each of you, and the overall strongest and weakest traits in your relationship.

solutions to help you (or your partner) balance out this overly strong trait in the relationship.

Take some time to read through each of these strongest traits for yourself and your partner and make journal entries that describe situations when you think that following the advice provided would be helpful. Ask your partner to do the same, and compare your entries together so that you may learn the best way for each of you to grow in this relationship.

Overall as a relationship, your strongest trait

In this section you will see one paragraph of text that interprets your overall strongest trait in the relationship when you are together. If you are interested in your business compatibility, a separate paragraph is provided that gives additional information on how the two of you can work best together with this strongest trait. If you are reading this for your personal compatibility (as friends or lovers) you can ignore the business interpretation text for this section. But, if you are interested in your business compatibility you should read the personal compatibility text, as it will provide you with additional insight into how this one strong trait affects your overall business partnership.

Overall as a relationship, your weakest trait

In this section you will see one paragraph of text that interprets your overall weakest trait in the relationship when you are together. If you are interested in your business compatibility, a separate paragraph is provided that gives additional information on how the two of you can work best together with this weakest trait.

If you are reading this for your personal compatibility (as friends or lovers) you can ignore the business interpretation text for this section. But, if you are interested in your business compatibility you should read the personal compatibility text, as it will provide you with additional insight into how this one weak trait affects your overall business partnership.

Cycles – their effect on the relationship

As each of you in the relationship go through different cycles, you affect the other person, as well as the relationship as a whole. Here we will look two cycles that may be affecting your relationship: Pinnacles which are major life cycles, and their accompanying Challenges, as well as your Personal Years.

You will see sections that cover the current Pinnacle cycle you are in at this time, and the major challenge of that cycle for each of you, as well as Personal Years for each of you. If you are near a major life cycle change that has brought you into a new Pinnacle in previous year, you will also see a section describing the previous Pinnacle. Take the time to study each of these and then go over them with your partner to try to understand how they may be affecting your relationship. For further Pinnacle/Challenge information have a look at our Professional Numerology Reading which covers all of your Pinnacles/Challenges throughout your life.

Your Pinnacles/Challenges

The Pinnacles indicate the four major cycles in your life and the challenges that will come up during each of these periods. Remember that these are major cycles influencing you for many years - you should combine these Pinnacles with our Personal years for an overall yearly outlook. The Pinnacles/Challenges change and take affect on your birth date, and they are felt for one year before, and one year after your birth date. For more detail see our detailed Forecasts which combine many other factors to create detailed, three-month, monthly and daily outlooks.

Have a look at your current Pinnacle/Challenge for details about the current major life cycle that you are going through. The Pinnacle indicates specific overall tendencies during the period, and the Pinnacle Challenge indicates overall problems or issues that may continue to arise during the time period as things that you must work on.

Note that if the same Pinnacle or Challenge appears in more than one of your cycles, or especially if the same number appears in succeeding cycles (such as 2nd Pinnacle=4, and 3rd Pinnacle=4), this indicates a special circumstance. Usually this means that you will have exceptional time of similar experiences (indicated by the Pinnacle) which will increase over the duration of the cycle(s) covered, or you will have Challenges occurring repeatedly (indicated by the challenge you are working).

Read about your current Pinnacle and Challenge. Reflect and meditate on how the overall time and lessons of your current major cycle fits in with your Life Path (life purpose) and goals at this time, and how this may play out within your relationship. Ask your partner to do the same.

The Compatibility of Your Pinnacles

In this section we take a detailed look at how your relationship compatibility is affected by your current Pinnacles. Remember that previous Pinnacles may also affect you, or your partner, if they occurred in the last year. Here you will see an interpretation of how well you are compatible regarding your major life cycles: the Pinnacles.

Understanding your Pinnacles, and your Challenges together may help you both grow in this relationship. If one or the other can help work through each other's Challenge that may occur, you will find that your growth together as a relationship is phenomenal.

Your Personal Years

The Personal year numbers will give you more specific insight into the overall tone of the year as it occurs within the major cycles (Pinnacles). Remember that the Personal years change on January 1st every year though their affect is felt from 3 months before January 1st, on October 1st. From October 1st to December 31st each year the energy from the previous personal year will begin to be felt less and less, while the energy from the coming personal year will be felt more. The Pinnacles/Challenges change and take affect on your birth date, and they are felt for one year before, and one year after your birth date. You should think about how these transitions may occur if you are nearing the completion of a major cycle or the end of the year.

Read the current year to see what you may possibly expect for the year ahead and for the next several years. Following the text is a brief monthly outlook (1-3 words) about what each month may bring. For more detail read your personal month information which is included in The Dreamtime Professional Readings.

The Compatibility of Your Personal Years

In this section we take a detailed look at how your relationship compatibility is affected by your current Personal Years. Remember that previous Personal Years may also affect you, or your partner for up to 3 months before the new year; starting on October 1st until December 31st. Here you will see an interpretation of how well you are compatible regarding your personal year cycles.

Understanding your Personal Years compatibility may help you both grow in this relationship. As each new year causes new growth, and shifts in attention, your relationship will also grow and change.

Take some time to read your compatibility outlook for the current year to see what you may possibly expect for the year ahead for the two of you. Every October you should consider sitting down with your partner to discuss the previous year, and the upcoming Personal Year that each of you have coming up, to get a better idea of what each of you may expect.

Ending Discussion

That wraps up our detailed explanation for getting the most from your personal Compatibility Numerology reading, but it doesn't end the discovery, growth, goal achievement, and change that is ahead for both of you as you progress along your paths of self-fulfillment and growth.

For more information check out some of our other detailed readings which can provide information which is not part of this reading. Our Professional Numerology Readings provide detail about your personality, and they go into great detail on the Pinnacles/Challenges for your entire life and Personal Months for the next eighteen months to come.

I wish you much success on your journey and hope that I have provided you with another powerful tool for clearing your vision to see the goals and lessons that may lie ahead for each of you in this lifetime. Good luck, peace and fulfillment on achieving your destiny as you grow and learn together.
